“Dacasso Conference Table Pads” - Chosen For Their World Class Quality to Outfit The 75th Anniversary NATO Summit

Dacasso is the premier manufacturer of leather conference room and desk accessories. Their conference pads are used in the most prestigious boardrooms in the country, including the White House Situation Room and the UN Headquarters.

Gainesville, Florida, June 27, 2024, The United States is hosting the NATO (North Atlantic Treaty Organization) Summit for its 75th Anniversary. The meeting will be held in Washington D.C. on July 9-11, 2024.

It all started with a call from their client, needing a rush order to be imprinted and delivered to Washington, D.C. in time for the historic event. After creating an art proof of the NATO Summit logo and receiving the client's approval, they ordered the metal die for imprinting before their cutoff time, ensuring this would arrive on schedule. This was all done within an hour and a half.

Once they received the metal die, their production team was able to imprint the 130 Chocolate Brown Conference Table Pads and ship them out the same day. The imprinted table pads arrived in D.C. the following day thanks to the great team effort at Dacasso.

About Dacasso:

Dacasso, the Nation's premier manufacturer of executive leather desk sets and conference room accessories, will be celebrating their 25th year this winter. They've outfitted some of the most prestigious boardrooms in the world, including the White House Situation Room, APEC, Singapore, and Hanoi Summits, as well as countless appearances in television and film.

The original company was started in November of 1999, and through a series of events, transitioned into Dacasso shortly thereafter. Their products sold rapidly as the demand for high quality leather desk accessories continued to grow.

Dacasso quickly became the premier manufacturer of executive leather desk sets and conference room accessories. Continued focus on the market allowed our growing company to design new accessories to add elegance and organization to busy executive offices. As Dacasso grew, more styles and products were introduced to fulfill the needs of the consumer.

It was this concept of growth and imagination that fueled Dacasso's drive to create innovative products. Dacasso became, and remains, the chosen leather desk set and conference room accessory manufacturer.
